

355-346 BC

Second Sacred War

PHOCIANS seized and plundered Delphi
because of fine imposed by AMPHICTYONIC Council

Thebans, Locrians, Thessalians and Macedonians win over Phocians.

Philip of Macedon and Thebans win Philip of Macedon become member of AMPHICTYONIC Council

C355BC
427-347BC

1912 Dates J-BK

"The Republic", "The Laws", "The Dialogues" "PHAEDRUS" "GORGIAS,"
"SYMPOSIUM" "CRITD"

by Plato about 427-347BC

set forth the teaching of Socrates.

355-346 B.C.

Sacred War

Philip^{II} of Macedon began a war against Phocis to secure Thessaly. Thebes, having failed to gain the submission of Phocis persuaded the AMPHICTYONIC Council to declare a sacred war against Phocis because of irregularities (irreligious acts) against Apollo and also to obtain the aid of Philip in carrying and the war. Philip would just unsuccessfully but later defeated them, thereby securing all Thuringia and providing as far as Thuringia was concerned by an Athens force. Immediately after the second nearly all of these.

355 → 346 BC

1912Dates J-BK

Second Holy War against the Phoenicians

355 BC

ISOCRATES' "AREOPAGITICS"